Russians Cheer Khrushchev Bid For Closer Ties

MOSCOW, April 30 (AP)—Soviet Russia's leaders returned from Britain to a triumphal flowers-and-kisses reception in Moscow today, and promptly bid for improved relations with the United States.

With Premier Nikolia Bulganin standing by, Communist boss Nikita Khrushchev told 10,000 cheering Russians "It seems to us that the U.S.A. is already beginning to show desirable signs of moving on the road to cooperation."

The overture appeared to indicate the two hope to develop direct negotiations with President Eisenhower on world problems.

One Sour Point

Bulganin said their 10-day tour of Britain, in which they negotiated with Prime Minister Eden, "was of great political and practical significance in Anglo-Soviet relations and the whole international life." The one sour point both emphasized was the attitude of the British Socialist Labor party, which they accused of following "reactionary anti-Soviet policy."

From a red-draped speakers' stand at the Moscow military airport, Khrushchev cited President Eisenhower's speech before the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington April 21.

"We cannot agree with many things he said because they did not help good relations," Khrushchev said, but he praised Eisenhower's words on a possibility of closer ties between Moscow and the West.

U. S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen, with his left arm in a sling as a result of a skiing accident four weeks ago, was among those who listened intently.

Ike Challenged Kremlin

Eisenhower had challenged the Russians to prove their avowal of peaceful intentions by abolishing "the wrongs of Stalin," in which he mentioned the continued division of Germany and Korea. But he said a Soviet government genuinely devoted to the legitimate interests of the Russian nation "can have friendly relations with the United States and the free world for the asking."

Reading a prepared text through steel-rimmed glasses, the Communist party chieftain said:

"We hope these words will be strengthened by practical steps. With good will, much can be done to improve relations between the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A."

"Little by little, we can re-establish confidence."

"Eventually we may reach agreement on disarmament and have normal trade and cultural relations with the U.S.A."

RAF Transport Crash Kills Two

STANSTED, England, April 30 (AP)—A big Royal Air Force servicemen's "family special" airliner skidded at 100 miles an hour and crashed on takeoff today. Two of the 50 persons aboard were killed.

A 4-year-old girl and an airman died in the tangled wreckage. Six passengers were injured critically. The others escaped. Airport officials said the reverse seats used on British transport craft saved lives, since the passengers were cushioned against shock.

The chartered plane veered over on one wing and skidded off the runway seconds after setting off for Cyprus with 20 servicemen, 11 wives, 14 children and a crew of 5.

The entire right side of the undercarriage crumpled and ripped away as the airliner dived and slid in a crazy circle.

The wing roots were torn from the fuselage and an 8-foot landing wheel ripped into the passenger cabin, trapping six persons for more than two hours.

As the plane rocked to a standstill, gasoline spouted from its torn tanks.

President Says U.S. Prosperity At Record High

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—President Eisenhower told the U.S. Chamber of Commerce today that his administration is guided by a policy "to foster progress through encouraging private competitive enterprise."

Eisenhower sent a message of greetings to the opening session of the three-day annual convention of the business men's organization.

First day speakers included James A. Farley, former Democratic national chairman, and Billy Graham, the evangelist.

Record Prosperity

Eisenhower's message said the administration policy has created record prosperity. He added:

"We must now find more ways to assist less flourishing segments of our economy to share more equitably in this abundance and we must continue to champion fiscal integrity in government and to promote healthy economic growth."

Farley told the business men that Eisenhower must bear part of the responsibility for the fact Congress has not acted on many of the government reorganization and economy proposals made last spring by the commission headed by former President Herbert Hoover.

No Legislation Asked

Farley noted that Eisenhower had called attention to the Hoover recommendations in his message on the budget and the State of the Union.

But, he said, there has been no specific presidential requests for legislation to carry out the recommendations and "my friends in Congress of both parties can still say with justification that they haven't been directly asked."

Evangelist Graham said in his speech that he found during his recent world tour that leaders were pessimistic about the chances of making beneficial use of atomic energy, as contrasted with destruction.

"It all started innocently when Weyer went over into Canada—just across the Detroit river—for a few hours' visit with friends."

Rather than explain to authorities at the border that he did not have his border crossing permit, Weyer told them he was born in the U.S. and was passed.

Weyer got into the scrape with immigration authorities when he admitted to an immigration service hearing examiner he had entered the country illegally last March. They ordered him deported because he told them he had been born in the United States.

New Gadget Aids Subway Riders

NEW YORK, April 30 (AP)—The city subways have a new gadget for harried riders who don't know how to get where they're going.

At the push of a button, the "Directomat" ejects printed directions to any of the 476 stations in the maze-like subway system.

Another button will bring a list of, say, Chinese restaurants and a push of the Brooklyn Dodger button not only will show how to get to Ebbets Field, but also the price of admission and a schedule of home games.

The first of the machines went into operation today in the congested Times Square station. The cost is being borne by advertisers.

Eisenhower's views were relayed to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee by Secretary of State Dulles, along with Dulles' own recommendations to keep the program rolling as part of "a national insurance policy" against "a serious and evident threat from the Soviet Communists."

The doubleheader appeal immediately ran into needling from Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) and a threat of a sizable cut.

GOP Propaganda Charged

Fulbright told Dulles he can't vote for a 40 per cent hike in the foreign aid authorization in the face of what he said is constant propaganda from the Republicans about "peace and prosperity."

"If we have peace," Fulbright said, "then there is no excuse for increasing this program by 40 per cent. If we don't have peace, then you ought to stop telling us we do have peace."

Dulles said the senator could tell his constituents:

"The United States is at peace. We are at peace in large part because we have this program, and therefore we should carry this program on."

Besides, he said, while a 40 per cent increase—to nearly $4,700,000—is proposed for authorized spending, actual spending in the upcoming fiscal year would be at about the same level as this year—around four billion dollars.

"Ironie" Possibility

"It would indeed be ironic," Dulles said in a formal statement to the committee, "if, now that the Soviet has begun giving aid to its allies in terms of hundreds of millions, the United States should withdraw from that program which it invented and let the Soviet take over that field."

Dulles had been on the telephone with Eisenhower this morning, before the President returned from his Gettysburg, Pa., farm to Washington, reading him part of his text.

He reported Eisenhower had told him the President had not changed his views that the mutual security program is vitally important to the American people and an indispensable part of the national effort.

West Virginia Miners Returning To Jobs

FAIRMONT, W. Va., April 30 (AP)—The back to work movement has started in at least two of the 14 Northern West Virginia coal mines which have been idled by what union leaders termed unauthorized walkouts.

Work resumed today at the Ida May mine of Bethlehem Collieries Corp. in Marion County, one of the state's largest captive mines, and Jamison No. 11 mine of the South Union Coal Co. at Edna, Monongalia County.

Indications were that most of the other affected mines would resume work either on tonight's midnight shift, or tomorrow morning.

Discuss Disarmament

LONDON, April 30 (AP)—Harold Stassen and Russia's Andrei Gromyko met today in another attempt to break the East-West deadlock on disarmament.

An informed source said nothing much happened during the private three-hour talk. It was the longest of three special sessions President Eisenhower's adviser on disarmament has held with Gromyko.

UN Secretary Renews Talks With Israelis

Mideast Peace Task Complicated By New Border Incidents

JERUSALEM, April 30 (AP)—U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld arrived in Jerusalem today hoping to nail down a Middle East peace agreement in a final round of talks with Israeli leaders.

His task was complicated by new incidents along the Israeli-Egyptian frontier which Israeli sources said were "new Egyptian aggression."

Hammarskjöld flew here directly from Cairo where well-informed sources said Egypt had given him a virtually free hand to implement any measures he liked for easing tension.

Jordan Peace Pledge Reported

Other sources in Cairo said Hammarskjöld had scored another success in that Jordan had given a cease-fire pledge which would be announced soon.

The Cairo informants said the biggest question facing the Hammarskjöld mission was whether Syria finally would go along in giving an unconditional cease-fire pledge.

Hammarskjöld, accompanied by Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, U.N. truce observation chief, landed at Kalandia Airdrome north of Jerusalem and went immediately to Government House in the demilitarized area between the Jordan and Israeli sections of Jerusalem.

Mission Near End

Hammarskjöld was a guest of Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett for informal talks tonight and expected to meet with Sharett and Premier David Ben-Gurion tomorrow. He planned to wind up his mission and leave for Rome on Wednesday or Thursday where he will prepare his final report to the U.N. Security Council.

In his talks with the Israelis Hammarskjöld faced fresh complaints in complaints that three Israelis were killed in weekend border incidents—two by a mine near the Egyptian border, and one by Gaza strip marauders attempting to harvest wheat in Israeli fields.

The Interstate Commerce Commission today authorized the eastern and western railroads to increase their inter-state passenger fares by 5 per cent, effective at midnight tonight.

The fare increase authorized today covers all passenger carrying railroads west of the Mississippi River, and those operating east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac Rivers, plus West Virginia and the larger part of Virginia, which constitute what is known as the Pocahontas region.

The southern railroads also propose a 5 per cent passenger fare increase to be made effective May 15.

The commission has taken no action on this proposal.

The increases granted in the east and west are estimated to increase passenger charges in these areas by about 27 million dollars a year.

The ICC said that the railroads involved have been taking multi-million-dollar losses on their passenger business for some years and that they clearly need additional revenue.

The upward revisions will increase basic coach passenger fares in the East from 3.375 cents to 3.544 cents a mile and first class rates from 4.5 cents to 4.725 cents a mile.

Family Seeks Return Of Mussolini's Body

ROME, Italy, April 30 (AP)—Benito Mussolini's family is pressing the Italian government to return the dictator's body.

This report came yesterday from the family attorney, Italo Formichella. He is a parliamentary deputy of the Italian Social Movement.

The government has kept the whereabouts of Mussolini's grave secret to prevent the spot from becoming a Fascist shrine. The family wants to bury the body in its own plot.

The Veep Passes On

Sen. Alben Barkley (D-Ky), who served as vice president under Harry S. Truman, died of a heart attack at Lexington, Va., yesterday. Barkley, 78, collapsed while giving the keynote address at the Washington and Lee University Democratic mock convention. He fell after telling the students: "I would rather be a servant in the house of the Lord than sit in the seats of the mighty."

Veep Falter, Falls During W&L Speech

Heart Attack Fatal To Kentuckian, 78; President Shocked

LEXINGTON, Va., April 30 (AP)—Sen. Alben W. Barkley (D-Ky) collapsed and died today of a heart attack on the stage he loved best—the political platform.

The 78-year-old "Veep" in the Truman administration faltered and fell as he neared the end of a 30-minute keynote speech at Washington and Lee University's mock Democratic convention.

He had just recalled his national political career as a congressman, junior senator, senior senator, majority leader, vice president and finally junior senator again for the cheering students. His last words were:

"I am willing to be a junior. I am glad to sit on the back row, for I had rather be a servant in the house of the Lord than to sit in the seats of the mighty."

He stepped back as though trying to continue and fell at 5:13 p.m., brushing a microphone on the stage with him.

A hush fell over the stuffy gymnasium which moments before had been rocking to Barkley's quips.

Wife In Audience

Mrs. Barkley, the St. Louis widow he married in 1949, was in the audience. Virginia's Gov. Thomas B. Stanley escorted her to the platform.

Within five minutes Dr. Robert Munger, university physician, was at Barkley's side. But the "Veep" was already dead. Dr. Munger said the heart attack was either a fibrillation (tremor of muscle fibers) or a coronary occlusion.

A minister on the stage, the Rt. Rev. John J. Gravatt, Episcopal bishop of South Carolina, said he didn't believe the former vice president took "a single breath after he fell."

The 1,000 students, assembled to try to pre-guess the next Democratic convention of next August in all the hoopla and trappings of a real convention, underwent a sharp shift of mood as Barkley lay on the stage. There was an uneasy quiet.

Body To Be Taken To Capital

Stretcher bearers removed the body to a mortuary, pending plans for removal to Washington. State trooper J. B. Ratliff left with Mrs. Barkley to drive her back to Washington in the Barkley car. Mrs. Francis P. Gaines, wife of the W&L president, accompanied her.

The Veep, who had been a delegate to every Democratic National Convention since 1920 and considered briefly making a try for the top spot on the ticket in 1952, delivered a last speech that bore the genuine Barkley brand.

He said when he arrived in Lexington he had not decided whether he would seek to go to Chicago again this August for the national convention.

"But since getting here, the old fire horse hears the bell," he said.

Later, when he decried any intention of being a presidential candidate himself, he said:

"All fire apparatus is now automotive and not horse drawn."

Eisenhower Shocked

The sudden death of Barkley—a figure on the national political scene for the past 43 years—brought shocked expressions of grief from President Eisenhower.

LeMay Says U.S. Would Win War With Russians But Suffer Heavy Damage

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—Gen. Curtis LeMay declared today that this country now can win "any war the Soviets may start."

But "we are not capable of winning it without this country receiving very serious damage," the chief of the Strategic Air Command added in testimony before a special Senate subcommittee investigating air power.

In a presentation carefully screened to protect military secrets, LeMay warned that Soviet Russia may have more long-range bombers and nuclear striking power than this country by 1960.

He appeared to rule out the fears of some senators and experts that InterContinental Ballistic Missiles may soon be a deciding factor in the armaments race between communism and the free world.

Difficult Problems

"I do not believe that in the foreseeable future the ICBM will replace all of the manned bomber forces," LeMay said.

He said work on the ICBM should aim for production "at the earliest possible date."

"However," he added, "there are many difficult problems in this program and I believe that the first model of the weapon, both ours and the Russians, will be less efficient than the manned bomber."

"As time goes on, this efficiency should increase and the weapon become more reliable and useful. I think it is reasonable to say that the ICBM will augment the manned bomber force, and at some later date will supplant a portion of the manned bomber force."

More Bombers Needed

LeMay appeared to be making a case for expansion of his globe-girdling forces.

But this was clouded somewhat by the method of presentation. He answered 44 questions dealing with the Strategic Air Command and relative Soviet air power that were handed him last Thursday.

In his screened replies, LeMay said the U.S. air forces and his bomber command need more new jet bombers, jet tankers to supply them, and bases and skilled crews to handle them.

He urged concentration on more modern successors for his present B52 jet bombers and KC135 jet tankers "at the earliest possible date."

Mass. Rep. Lane Gets Jail Term For Evading Taxes

BOSTON, April 30 (AP)—Rep. Thomas J. Lane (D-Mass.), tearfully denying any criminal intent, pleaded guilty in federal court today and was sentenced to begin a four-month jail term next Monday for evasion of $38,542 income taxes.

The sentence, also carrying a $10,000 fine, does not bar Lane from his seat in Congress nor from running for re-election. Fifteen years in Congress, the 57-year-old lawyer is the third-ranking Democrat on the Judiciary Committee.

He could be ousted only by vote of the House, which is the sole judge of its members' qualifications. Lacking that, he will continue to draw his pay.

Lane could not be reached after the sentencing, but his counsel said he believed Lane had not thought of resigning. Lane himself told the court he thought he had "served honorably."

Tall, and friendly, Lane has been a strong vote-getter, never defeated in a political campaign. He

Senators' Report Denounced By GM

DETROIT, April 30 (AP)—A recent Senate "big business" subcommittee report on General Motors was denounced by GM today as "wholly unwarranted," and based on opinion and hearsay rather than on documented fact.

The statement was GM's reaction to the findings in a staff report of the subcommittee headed by Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.).

The committee report questioned whether GM should be allowed to expand freely into new fields; it suggested GM should cut car prices and proposed a further study by Congress and the Justice Department to determine if action is called for to curb what the report called a trend toward monopoly by General Motors.

Salk Vaccine Released

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—Release of 3,353,274 doses of Salk polio vaccine was announced today by the Public Health Service. This made 8,566,551 shots released during April—the largest amount ever cleared in a single month.

High Court Defers Ruling On Red Registration Law

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—Over the sharp protest of three of its justices, the Supreme Court today put off indefinitely a ruling on legality of the 1950 Communist registration law.

Justice Clark, speaking for himself and Justices Reed and Minton, protested that in doing so the court "disregards its plain responsibility and duty" to decide important constitutional questions.

Justice Frankfurter, speaking for the 6-3 majority, said the court wants to make certain the Subversive Activities Control Board did not rely on "tainted evidence" in finding the Communist party was a tool of Moscow and directing it to register with the attorney general.

As a result, the case now goes back to the control board for further proceedings.

The Communist party must be given a chance to discredit if it can the testimony of three government witnesses, or else the board must disregard their testimony entirely.

"In either event," Frankfurter wrote, "the board must then reconsider its original determination in the light of the record as freed from the challenge that now beclouds it."

This made it virtually certain that the Supreme Court will not get around to passing on the constitutional issues before next fall—some six years after the law was passed by Congress over the veto of former President Truman.

The law is known officially as the Subversive Activities Control Act. It forms the heart of the 1950 Internal Security Act, frequently called the McCarran Act for the late Sen. Pat McCarran (D-Nev.), its principal author.

The act sets up the SACB and provides machinery for the attorney general to bring registration proceedings not only against the Communist party but its fronts as well.

Clark, in as sharply worded a dissent as has come from the court in a long time, said he had found any case in the court's history "where important constitutional issues had been avoided on such a pretext."

Greyhound, Other Bus Lines Plan Fare Hike

BALTIMORE, April 30 (AP)—Four bus lines serving Maryland plan a 6 per cent fare hike May 25 as part of a nationwide move by bus companies to keep pace with railroad rate boosts, a Public Service Commission spokesman said today.

The 30-day notice was filed with the commission by Capital Bus Co., Carolina Coach Co., Greyhound Corp. and Safeway Trails Inc.

A PSC spokesman said the increase would put bus fares on a par with railroad passenger rates, due to jump 5 per cent tomorrow.

A Tribute To Our Hospitals!

Someone once said that all well people should visit a hospital occasionally to see how fortunate they are! When a friend or loved one is being tenderly cared for in one of our hospitals, then we understand the great importance of these institutions. Staffed with doctors, nurses, internes and all manner of life saving equipment, the hospital is mercy headquarters for all who are suffering. We never cease to wonder at the modern miracles performed in our hospitals. Their works go largely unheralded. But their eagerness to bind up wounds and make men whole again goes on forever. What would we do without these havens of healing?

Polish Refugee Pressure Must Cease, U.S. Says

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—The State Department today told the Polish Embassy to stop putting pressure on Polish nationals here to go back behind the Iron Curtain.

It accused embassy officials of "seeking out Polish nationals in this country and . . . by various methods . . . attempting to prevail upon them to return to Poland."

In a note handed to Polish Ambassador Romuald Spasowski, the State Department asked that the practice "cease immediately."

Spasowski told reporters at the State Department that, in the case of three Polish seamen who gave up American sanctuary and went home last fall, the seamen approached the embassy in the first place. He denied that embassy officials made what the State Department described as "unsolicited personal visits" on the sailors.

The American note said this government recognizes the right of all foreign missions here to talk to citizens of their countries. It said the United States would not try to stop any alien from going home voluntarily.

But it added American traditions of democracy and freedom rule out "attempts to exert pressure upon or to influence" the aliens.

The three Polish seamen apparently involved in the case were among 22 granted sanctuary in the United States after their ships were seized by Nationalist China two years ago.

Runaway Balloon Heads Northeast

BALTIMORE, April 30 (AP)—Philadelphia! New York! Boston! Attention! If you see a large silvery object flying over your areas today, don't be alarmed. It's probably only a runaway balloon from Baltimore.

One got away here today and the Air Force and Ground Observer Corps have been alerted to look for it.

The 22-foot-long silver-colored neoprene balloon broke its moorings atop the Sears Roebuck & Co. store and was last seen speeding away in a northeasterly direction. The balloon is about 10 feet in diameter and is shaped like a dirigible.

Cambridge Police Chief Since '36 Dies

CAMBRIDGE, Md., April 30 (AP)—Grason Woolford Price, Cambridge police chief for more than 19 years, died today at his home after an illness of about eight months. He was 57.

Appointed to the Cambridge Police Board in 1931, Chief Price was credited with a reorganization of the force and in 1936 was named chief of police.

He emphasized the prevention of crime as being as important as the apprehension of criminal after a crime has been committed.

In 1954, Chief Price won the Gold Seal of Progress Award, given annually by the Mission, Texas, Chamber of Commerce to an outstanding police chief in each state.

He was president of the Maryland Law Enforcement Assn. in 1942 and 1943 and had been a member of the group's executive committee since then.

Williams Hits Vote Claims Of Opponents

BALTIMORE, April 30 (AP)—George Washington Williams, Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate nomination, estimated today the number of votes claimed by two of his opponents totals 150 per cent of the Democratic voting population of Maryland.

But Williams said his "foot-cavansing" of the State shows "the grass roots did not support any computation based on claims by Millard E. Tydings and George P. Mahoney."

Vet To Get $7,500 Because Towel Left In Stomach

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—The Senate voted today to pay $7,500 to a Baltimore war veteran because a towel was sewed up in his stomach after an operation in an Army hospital.

The payment would be made to Arthur K. Jefferson, a committee report said the towel, 30 by 18 inches, was left in his stomach during an operation July 3, 1945, and not discovered and removed until an operation on March 13, 1946.

Jefferson lost a court fight to collect $100,000. Judge Chesnut of U.S. District Court ruled that the government was not liable under the law in a suit of that kind for service-connected injuries.

The Senate Judiciary Committee said it agreed with the court decision, "but believes that as an equitable or honorable proposition some measure of recovery should be accorded this claimant."

Administration's Demo Critics Hit By Gov. M'Keldin

NEW YORK, April 30 (AP)—Republican Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland hit back today at Democrats who accuse the Eisenhower administration of being too friendly with big business.

Such criticism, he told the Calvin Bullock Forum on Wall Street, comes from "confused men who cannot fathom a prosperity without a priming pump controlled by a bureaucratic hand."

He called them a "little group with sadistically happy memories of leaf-raking, snow shoveling, general boondoggling and the herding of hungry voters to the polling places on election day."

"Never before in the history of America was there a group of politicians so obviously and so openly frightened by the nation's prosperity," McKeldin said.

He said after "20 years of governmental stifling of American enterprise" they are "fearfully aware that a genuinely healthy economy contains no call for re-sumption of their hampering paternalism."

Major Crimes Rise In Maryland Cities

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—Major crime in Maryland cities went up last year compared to a slight nationwide decline in such cities, a Federal Bureau of Investigation report showed today.

The report showed there were 26,723 major crimes known to police in 18 Maryland cities last year—an increase of 1,440 over the year before and a 5 per cent jump.

The national average for city crime was down 0.8 per cent.

There were increases in Maryland in manslaughter by negligence, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, larceny, theft and auto theft. Murder and non-negligent manslaughter were down by one to 87; burglary and breaking and entering dropped about 35 cases to 5,313. Robbery was up 225 cases to 923.

Cuba Imposes Censorship In Wake Of Revolt

HAVANA, Cuba, April 30 (AP)—The government imposed press and radio censorship today in the wake of a weekend civilian revolt.

At least 12 of the rebels were killed, the army said, and three others may have been killed trying to flee. Three soldiers were wounded.

Congress was called to meet in joint session tomorrow to approve a government decree cancelling such constitutional guarantees as freedom of assembly and freedom of the press.

The government announced it had released ex-President Carlos Prio Socarras, who had returned recently from exile in Florida.

Prio and several friends were seized and held for questioning when the revolt broke out yesterday. He has been accused frequently by the government of plotting revolts—charges he always has denied.

There was no explanation of his release. But President Fulgencio Batista, the government said, had personally ordered it. Prio did not go to his ranch outside Havana but to the home of friends in the capital.

The government announcement did not say whether Prio's friends also had been released.

Maryland Taxpayers Expecting Refunds Asked To Be Patient

BALTIMORE, April 30 (AP)—Comptroller J. Millard Tawes today asked taxpayers expecting a State income tax refund to be patient.

Tawes noted this is the first year of the pay-as-you-go system in Maryland and there necessarily will be some delays.

He said there have been numerous inquiries about refunds and "it would help greatly if the taxpayer would bear with the Income Tax Division."

Letters and phone calls only tend to slow things up, he said. More than 5,000 refunds, averaging slightly over $6, already have been paid.

Democrats Lose Prospective Keynote

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—The sudden death of Sen. Alben Barkley of Kentucky tonight took from the Democrats a prospective keynote for their presidential nominating convention and a veteran warhorse of the campaign to follow.

The heart attack that felled Barkley at Lexington, Va. shocked Democrats and Republicans alike. It removed from the national scene a former vice president who retained at 78 a spellbinding oratorical ability highly valued by his party.

Veep Falters

Barkley resigned his Senate seat in 1949 to take the oath as vice president after he and President Truman combined their campaigning talents to score a stunning political upset over the Republicans.

The mock convention which was to have run through tomorrow was postponed indefinitely. There will be no classes, in respect to Barkley's memory.

Mrs. Barkley, who appeared reasonably well composed, said just before she left she would request that funeral services be held Wednesday morning at Foundry Methodist Church, Washington, with Dr. Harris, former Senate chaplain, officiating.

Burial will be in Paducah, Ky., Barkley's home town, probably on Friday after services there at the Methodist church Barkley attended.

Barkley, a genial man and a great story teller, was one of the most popular men in the Senate and one of the hardest working. When he was vice president, his grandchildren gave him the name of "Veep" and the word became a part of the nation's political language.

He won his first political office 51 years ago, when he was elected prosecuting attorney of McCracken County, Ky., where his home town of Paducah is located.

Four years later he was elected county judge and then, in 1913, he went to the U.S. House of Representatives. He went to the Senate in 1927.

He resigned from the Senate to become vice president in 1949, having been elected the previous November with Harry Truman in a campaign in which he often made three or four speeches a day.

Although younger men had been suggested for the role of temporary chairman and keynote at this year's presidential nominating convention in Chicago, many politicians had expected Barkley would be the compromise choice if any controversy developed over a selection.

Barkley, beloved of his colleagues because of his enormous fund of humorous stories, served as Democratic temporary chairman in 1932 when the late Franklin D. Roosevelt first was nominated. He repeated the role in 1936.

In 1940 he was permanent chairman of the convention that nominated Roosevelt for a third term.

Trichologist D. W. Erickson, who headed recent study, shows part of special formulas used in scientifically planned home scalp treatment.

Hair Specialist Here Tomorrow; Will Show How To Save Hair And Prevent Baldness

CHICAGO, April 30 (AP)—New home treatment methods for saving your hair, and improving its growth, will be demonstrated in Cumberland on Wednesday, May 2.

Trichologist F. B. Bennett who represents the largest organization of its kind in the country, will be in charge. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 2:00 to 9:00 p. m. tomorrow at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

At the home office of Erickson Hair and Scalp Specialists, D. W. Erickson, the dynamic young director, also announced a new, more successful method of treatment that you can easily administer at home.

Erickson emphasized that his new treatment is neither "mail-order" nor "cure-all." It is adapted to the individual after a personal examination, and progress is personally checked by an Erickson expert at regular intervals.

Who Can Be Helped?

"For many years now, we have regularly checked the hair of thousands of people across the country," he said. "We have encountered and dealt with hundreds of cases of each kind of hair trouble. And all this experience has gone into the preparation of our new home treatments."

Will his new treatment cure baldness? "No," said Erickson sincerely. "We can not help men or women who are slick-bald after years of gradual hair loss. But where your scalp is still creating hair, you can at least save and thicken what you have. And some conditions, such as alopecia areata or 'spot baldness,' usually have complete recovery if caught in time."

Other conditions that usually bring on excessive hair loss—dandruff, itching, irritated scalp, follicles clogged with sebum or seborrhea—can be corrected by Erickson home treatment if caught before the "hair factories" are destroyed.

Evidence of the success of Erickson's methods is that his organization has quickly expanded to serve 472 cities in 32 states.

The important thing is: "Don't wait until it's too late!"

V. L. Carlson Moline, Ill., with fuzzi BEFORE Erickson Treatment

A Few Months LATER Hair Still Growing (Unretouched Photos)

Satisfy 90% "Actually, our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim to do," Erickson said. "We satisfy more than 90% of our clients. That is a very good average too, when you consider that almost every person is a confirmed skeptic where his hair is concerned. So getting them to come in for examination is the problem."

Examine You Free He made it clear that you incur absolutely no charge or obligation by coming in for an examination.

"Your only obligation is to yourself to ease your mind of hair worries by learning how to save and thicken your hair. We will tell you frankly whether or not you can be helped, how long it will take, and how much it will cost. We do not accept cases involving systemic or organic disease. Such cases should be treated by a physician."

Guarantee Satisfaction "We guarantee your satisfaction within 30 days or it costs you nothing."

Call the Hotel Fort Cumberland tomorrow for Mr. Bennett's suite number, then come in to see him between 2:00 and 9:00 p. m. for a free examination and discussion of your hair problems. He does not make appointments, so come in at your convenience.

You won't be obligated or embarrassed in any way. Examinations are given in private.

Fluoridation Foes Appear Before Council

Opponents of fluorine in the city water supply were assured again yesterday by the Mayor and Council that "no hasty" action is contemplated, and all opposition forces will be heard before a decision is reached.

Mayor Roy W. Eves also declared as false a statement that the city plans to introduce fluorine soon. He said council is in accord and has definitely decided that nothing could be done until after filter improvements at the Lake Gordon water plant are completed, and even then it is possible that there could be further delay.

He said those protesting will be met by council "after we get all the facts together."

Previously, the Mayor had said council would take no action until an authoritative source tells them whether they are right or wrong.

Appearing yesterday to oppose the plan were G. B. Miltenberger, Bedford Road; Mrs. Walter C. Capper, 502 Washington Street; George F. Krigleine, 313 Dorn Avenue, and Mrs. Regis Brinker, 509 Greenway Avenue.

George H. Tederick, former water commissioner, said he had collected data on the subject and had attended a session of the American Water Works Association at which he heard a lot of opposition. He was surprised, therefore, when he read that the AWWA had approved it. He said it is up to council to get the facts, and added Sheridan, Wyo., had dropped fluorine from its water supply two years ago.

Miltenberger said Tyler, Texas, had also voted out fluorine from its water; said his daughter had suffered a sore mouth after using a fluoride toothpaste; urged careful weighing of the subject and if possible to have the people vote.

Mrs. Capper disputed a statement that chlorine added to water is the same as fluorine and added chlorine kills germs before water is consumed while fluorine must be consumed to get to the teeth.

She said she believes council is exceeding its authority if it forces fluorine to be added to the water. It can be purchased for use by the individual, Mrs. Capper added. She also said that different people require different amounts of water daily and the amount of water with fluorine consumed cannot be controlled.

Krigleine disputed a statement by Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, that Chicago has approved use of fluorine. He said a vote will not be taken on the subject until May 9.

Mrs. Brinker read a letter from Mrs. Margaret Twigg who said her daughter's teeth had been treated with fluorine spray with disastrous results. Mrs. Brinker said she also opposed fluorine.

Keegan Suggests Petitions On Bid For New Gas Boost

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan said yesterday if the Public Service Commission has the interest of the individual at heart "each and every person should petition the PSC" in regard to the proposed new rate increase sought by the Public Service Commission.

Keegan made the statement before the Mayor and Council yesterday. Last week, he said Maryland citizens ought to have an organization like West Virginia's to carry its battles to the PSC.

The city is looking into the possibility of filing a joint protest with the county.

In other activity, council authorized Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz to advertise for bids on four trucks for the Street Department. Buchholtz said repair work on existing vehicles is getting costly and the new ones are needed before heavy schedules start with the coming of good weather.

Council accepted the bid of South Cumberland Planning Mill of $92.50 each for 18 semi-assembled outside toilets for Municipal Airport.

Finance Commissioner John J. Long asked if there is enough money in the airport fund and Mayor Roy W. Eves said the Lions Club is sharing half the cost. Long Spring Tonic That Lasts All Year !

His heart is light and his eyes are bright this morning—for he's greeting the spring at the wheel of a 1956 Cadillac.

Springtime comes and springtime goes, of course—but the thrill of his Cadillac will go on and on—month after month and year after year.

And what a thrill it is!

First, there's the sheer satisfaction of owning the "Standard of the World"—the undisputed leader in all that makes a motor car a joy to possess and a pleasure to utilize.

Then there's the thrill of driving it—with its smooth, powerful engine—its easy, positive steering—and its big, soft, authoritative brakes.

There is the contentment that comes with Cadillac's amazing economy.

The first cost of a Cadillac is surprisingly modest—upkeep, over the years, is unbelievably low—and operating costs rival those of any car.

And now, in all modesty, may we speak of one other satisfaction he enjoys as a Cadillac owner?

We believe that, throughout the years of his ownership, he will be as pleased with us, as his dealer, as he is with the wonderful car itself. It is our constant endeavor to treat our customers as they are entitled to be treated as owners of the world's most distinguished car.

Why not come in some day quite soon—take a demonstration drive at the wheel—and arrange to greet the spring in a Cadillac of your own?

We think you'll be surprised and delighted to learn how much your present car is worth in trade—and to find how quickly you can obtain delivery on the Cadillac of your choice.

Crisis 'Everywhere' Threatens Peace

As harried Washington diplomats survey the world today, it must seem to them that never before in history has it been necessary for any state department to handle so many different crises simultaneously.

To use a homely simile, they are in somewhat the same plight as a man with a bad infestation of moles in a very large lawn. While he is busy tramping down the tunnels in one part of the lawn, the moles are pushing up new tunnels and he lacks sufficient eyes or hands or time to cope with them everywhere at once.

It was difficult to form a firm and effective policy when the free nations were confronted by a single powerful threat—the military might of the Soviet Union. Today there are outcroppings of trouble or threats of imminent conflict in many spots.

The collapse of French and British power overseas has made possible the rise of Arab nationalism in Egypt and the nations of the Middle East, the rebellions in Algeria and Morocco, and the rioting on Cyprus.

On the other side of the world, the vast island complex of Indonesia is in heady ferment, Ceylon has just overthrown its pro-Western government, and Communist China offers an ever present threat of aggression against the offshore islands held by the Nationalist Chinese.

In Europe, France's government, as usual, is shaky, and the West Germans, although still held in the Western alliance by the firm hand of Chancellor Adenauer, are uneasy about where the future lies.

Lesser troubles are brewing in Japan, in India, and in many of the countries of Central and South America, although these difficulties are overshadowed temporarily by more serious crises elsewhere.

What the United States is faced with today is not one threat to peace but a score of them, all in some way interrelated but each of which must be dealt with in its own way.

The Chilly British

Nobody can be as chilly as a Britisher when he feels like being chilly. Also an Englishman makes a good life-long friend who stands by when needed without too much emotion or fuss. It is a matter of tradition with the British not to forget that a cad is no gentleman and therefore it is not at all surprising that while Sir Anthony Eden, as Prime Minister, invited Bim and Bom, otherwise known as Khrushchev and Bulganin, for a state visit to Great Britain, the British people, particularly the working people and the trade unionists, would have nothing to do with them. Poor old Bulganin, who always tries to be so dapper and smiling, finally became dour and snappy which is really more in character and Khrushchev wanted to know who swiped the vodka which is also in character.

Only Charlie Chaplin, the clown, could have made the scene perfect. And he was there to add his personal approval of Bim and Bom, which must have pleased them no end. Also Harold Stassen was there, for what purpose was not made clear. But the British people displayed an independence and maturity wholly unexpected by the Russians who in India were cheered to a point of impropriety.

These Russians misunderstood the British treatment of Malenkov. It was familiar but not respectful. The British possess an enormous capacity for respect, making profound distinction between those who are worthy and those who are unworthy. And Malenkov was treated as though he were a movie star and not a Cabinet officer of high rank in his own country. In the United States where class distinctions move in the opposite direction and where such a character as Frank Sinatra may be better known than the Secretary of the Interior, it is impossible for the Russians quite to understand that the familiarity of British mass treatment of Malenkov was disrespectful and presaged an even worse treatment of B and K, as they call this pair.

If Sir Anthony Eden called Sir Winston Churchill the names that Khrushchev called Stalin, it would be the end of Eden's career among the British. It would not be cricket. There can be no objection to Aneurin Bevan calling Churchill names—Bevan is of the opposition and owes Churchill nothing, except a measure of respect for Churchill's services to his country and the politeness that is due a man of Churchill's age. A mature people is always a respectful people.

But from Sir Anthony Eden more would be expected, namely, an assumption of some responsibility for Churchill's public acts in which Eden participated, and, after Churchill's death, a defense of his memory. That is what a gentleman owes to an associate and a senior.

To the average Britisher, Khrushchev's attack on Stalin must have smelled like decaying herring. For how could Khrushchev disassociate himself from Stalin when he committed the murders that Stalin required of him? And this holds for Bulganin. Now that the record is public, ordinary Britishers decline to ignore it.

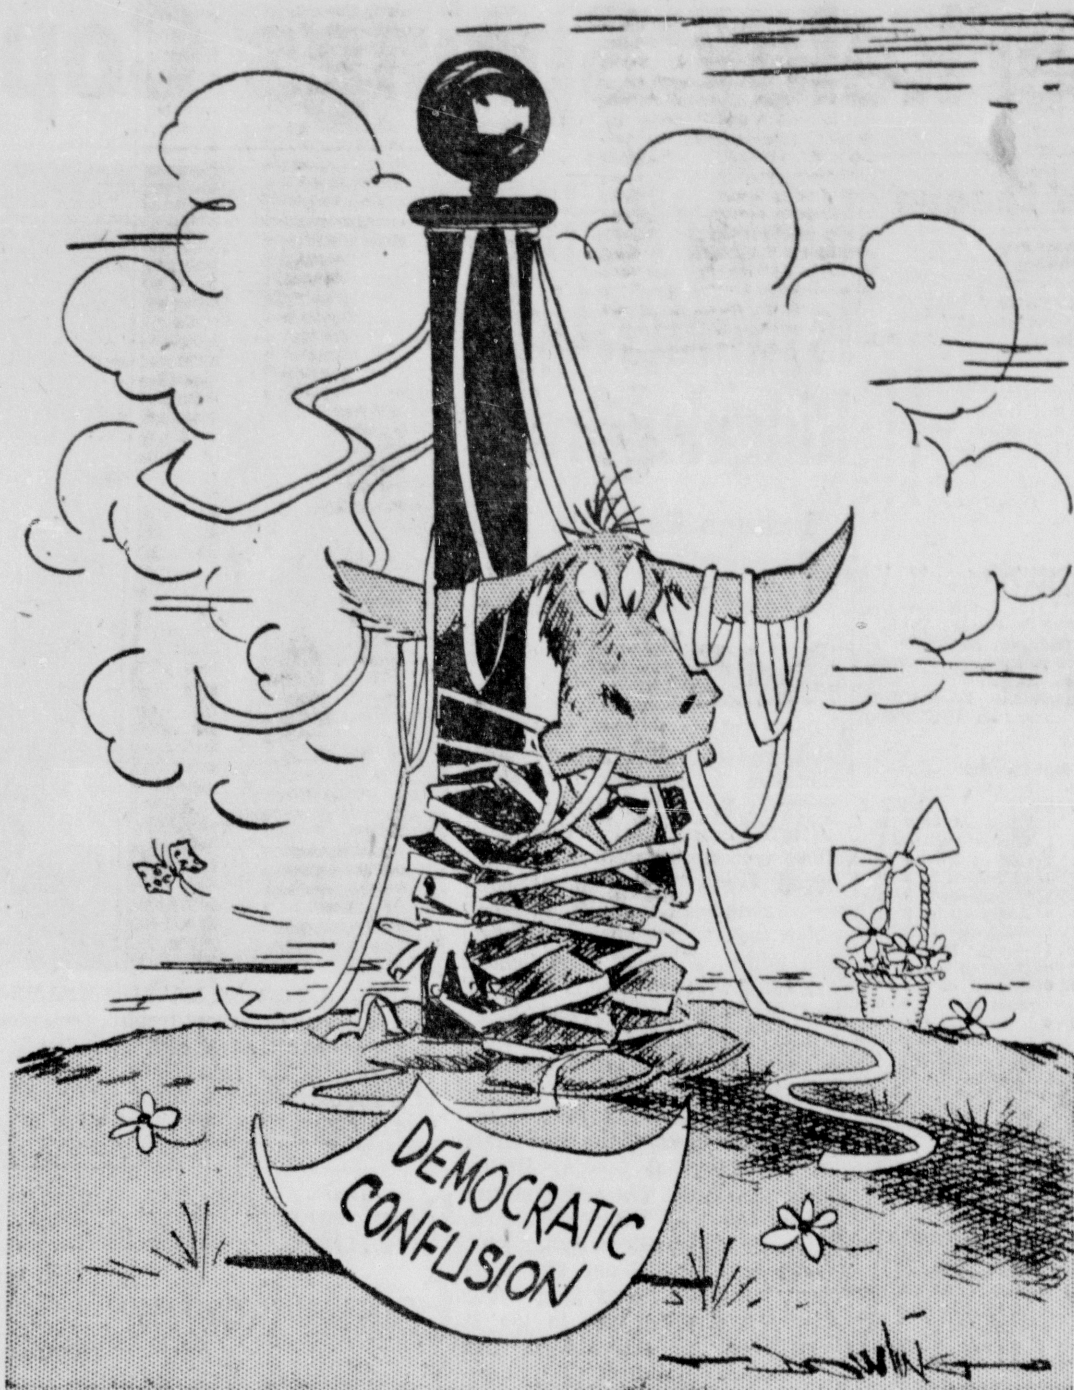

What no Russian can really understand is the complete separation of government from people in a free society. There are things that a government official must do, such as sitting down to dinner with a foreign potentate who is known to be a murdered, a lecher, and a thief.

But the butcher and baker and automobile mechanic does not need to besmirch his individuality by even smiling at the beast, much less shouting hurrah! And although, here in New York, when the Mayor orders a ticker-tape cavalcade, torn ticker-tape will be hurled from the windows, in England the worker in the factory is more likely to ask the shop steward to protest against the interference with the worker's time. The Englishman likes or dislikes as he chooses but not on government orders.

When Bim and Bom get back to the Kremlin and try to analyze what happened to them in London, they had better get other experts than Burgess and MacLean who apparently told them that they had to kiss babies to be popular. Popularity among the British is not purchased that cheaply. A tough race, with long traditions and a pride that comes from ruling the world for three centuries, they are not bought over by a kiss or even by a satisfactory trade deal. Their measure is character—and what they call cricket.

Here We Go 'Round The May Primary Polls

Extension Of Federal Police Power Under Way

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The day is not far off when the federal government will take over some of the important functions of maintaining law and order which hitherto have been considered by the courts to be solely the responsibility of states, counties and cities. An extension of the federal police power is underway.

The latest move whereby the House of Representatives is being asked by its Judiciary Committee to pass legislation permitting the attorney general to bring civil suits to enforce civil rights — if confirmed as constitutional by the Supreme Court in a future case — would mean that Congress could provide criminal penalties, too. In fact, Chairman Celler of the House Judiciary Committee recently sponsored exactly such a provision which, for reasons of political expediency, was temporarily dropped from the committee's bill on civil rights in favor of one being pressed by the administration.

What it all means is that the new measure, although not aimed at labor unions, will be feared by them — at least by those unions which depend on "goons" and strong-arm men to overturn a worker's auto at the factory gate and beat him up. For, if the new measures on civil rights are passed and sustained in the courts, it's the opening wedge toward protection of the "right to work" both by the federal government and the states.

Historically the Constitution has been interpreted as meaning that no state can pass a law abridging the right to vote or the freedom of the press or any of the "privileges and immunities of citizens." But up to now this has been construed by the Department of Justice in administration after administration and by the Supreme Court in decision after decision to mean that, unless it can be shown that state enforcement machinery has actually broken down, the federal police power cannot be lawfully interposed.

Only last Monday, however, the Supreme Court of the United States reached into the procedures of the State of Illinois in a case which didn't involve a federal crime at all — indeed, it was a local case of robbery — and ruled that the state court hadn't complied with a technicality in procedure. Who is to decide, for instance, whether a stenographic copy of the testimony shall be given free or charged for when a petition for appeal is filed? Up to now the Supreme Court of the State of Illinois has thought it could handle such a question as a state matter. The Supreme Court of the United States by a 5-to-4 vote last week said the Illinois court was wrong. Justice Harlan of the Supreme Court, in a minority opinion, said:

"The Constitution now, in other words, is what the Department of Justice and the Supreme Court together may say it is. The Constitution heretofore has been construed by the Supreme Court to mean that no state can make any law abridging the right to vote on account of race or color and that no state may fail to guarantee the right of the citizen to 'life, liberty and property.'" But up to now the Department of Justice has not intervened to punish murder on the picket line or in racial troubles unless there was evidence of a breakdown of the enforcement machinery of the state itself.

Recently — in 1953 — the labor unions closed down several newspapers in New York City. The unions acted in concert and some of them ignored their contract obligations to work. They accomplished together by conspiracy the denial of a constitutional right. They abridged freedom of the press. But the Department of Justice held this was a state matter. Likewise, in case after case of violence at the factory gate, the Department of Justice has not intervened even though unions do act in concert and carry on their activities as organizations sanctioned by federal law.

Far-reaching change With the new proposals that look into "economic pressure," on the other hand, the attorney general would be given the power to enforce civil rights instead of leaving it to aggrieved citizens to bring suits. It would be a short step then to federal intervention and the enactment of criminal penalties to deal with labor union violence and coercion and intimidation in labor-union elections and membership activities.

Maybe on balance the gain for the country on the "right to work" side for many millions of workers would in the long run far outweigh the disadvantages of a few states in the South which have, by one means or another, discouraged Negroes from voting. So far as these state laws on qualifications for voting are concerned, the record is clear — they apply to both races. But in enforcement there is a question. The new civil-rights measures, therefore, if passed, would permit the Department of Justice to look into "pressures" behind all state laws affecting individual rights. It would be a far-reaching change.

When I was in New York Hospital a Washington Senator called me and asked if I wrote, "Whether you stand up in the stirrups or squat in the saddle the weight is still on the boss."

That goes for mules too. Both the Republicans and the Democrats have made the problem a political football.

This time they have to make their point before touchdown.

How does the farm policy react on us sidewalk superintendents? It makes us take a firmer grip on our can openers.

I'm interested in the problem because I'm what they call a gentleman farmer. That's a fellow in a gray flannel polo coat who harvests moss on a flat rock.

We don't know whether the Democrats or the Republicans are right. But we said once before that only a cat going through a picket fence can be on both sides at once.

Germany, when an attempt was made to find out how rest and exercise affected the course of the disorder.

Ninety-eight patients in varying stages of the disease were selected and divided into three groups. The first was given graduated exercises for two weeks, starting with simple calisthenics and working up to 15 minutes of running. The second group stayed in bed and the third was allowed strenuous exercise to the point of fatigue during the first day of the experiment and then put to bed for two weeks.

Meanwhile, all received the same diet and vitamins. No difference was noted in the recovery rate except that when the more severely afflicted patients exercised, it took longer to get well.

There were more than 4,000 cases during the Korean War. A special study was done on 460 of these men and women to determine the effects of diet, rest, and exercise. Activity proved not to be harmful nor did it influence the duration of the disease. Recovery was most rapid when meals high in calories, proteins, and vitamins were eaten.

The role of fat in the diet also was put to the test. In the past, this substance was restricted because it produced nausea and was thought to be harmful. But under control conditions there was no evidence that fat affected hepatitis one way or another, provided the intake of proteins and carbohydrates was adequate. Methionine and choline did not seem to affect the outcome of the disease.

But reports of this nature may be misleading. For example, recovery was delayed when patients with a more serious infection were allowed to get out of bed. This has led other authorities to insist upon rest during the early stages, when laboratory tests show evidence of maximum liver damage. Once the crisis has passed, the physicians can be more lenient.

Strict bed rest also is advised when the condition fails to respond or recurs as well as in patients with marked loss of appetite, digestive distress, jaundice, or dropsy. A well rounded diet helps but supplementary vitamins are unnecessary unless the food intake is inadequate. Since alcohol is potentially dangerous to the victim of liver disease, he should stay on the wagon while sick.

TOMORROW: Testing for polio.

IT'S POSSIBLE Mrs. W. writes: Can breast cancer develop in a woman who has had a hysterectomy?

REPLY Yes, because the uterus has little or nothing to do with cancer in other parts of the body. Removal of the ovaries will retard growth of breast cancer by stopping ovarian secretions but the procedure will not prevent the disease from developing in the breast.

LIFE EXPECTANCY L. T. writes: I've been living with one kidney for 34 years. I'm now 55. What is my longevity status?

REPLY Normal, if your remaining kidney is healthy.

CHICKEN POX RECURRENCE Mrs. W. writes: My son had chicken pox twice but my neighbors won't believe it. Will you please comment, as we all read your column.

REPLY Recurrences are rare but if your physician made this diagnosis on two occasions, it must be so. I assume your youngster has been vaccinated against smallpox.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Chotiner, Friend Of Nixon, Should Have Easy Time Before Probers

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—When the Senate Investigating Committee tackles Vice President Nixon's close friend and confidant tomorrow, they will have to be extremely smart. For Chotiner is not only an attorney; he is one of the shrewdest public relations men on the West Coast.

He not only managed Nixon's campaign for the Vice Presidency, but his campaign for the Senate in 1950, while his first campaign for Congress in 1946, and conceived the brilliantly executed cloth-coat-little dog TV report to the nation in which Nixon broke down criticism of his $18,000 personal expense fund.

Cross-examining Chotiner will be Sen. John McClellan of Arkansas who can be a penetrating prober when he wants to be, but who has latent sympathies for the Nixon-GOP side. Strongly backstopping Chotiner—if he needs it—will be such potent Nixon pals as Sens. Joseph McCarthy and Karl Mundt of South Dakota. Chotiner ought to come away unscathed.

Behind his career, however, if the committee probes deep enough are some highly interesting circumstances.

The immediate circumstance is that Sam and Herman Kravitz, the clothing manufacturers who had already been blacklisted for cheating the Army, were in income-tax trouble. Doubtless that was the chief reason why, with a battery of seven eastern lawyers at their command, they reached across the U.S.A. to Beverly Hills, Calif., to hire an attorney with power in high places.

Last week the Kravitzes repeatedly invoked the Fifth Amendment when asked about their various troubles, and Chotiner has already told the Senate committee that he would invoke the right not to answer because of lawyer-client relationship.

Senator McCarthy would have beat his breast and protested in frontpage headlines if witnesses had done this to him. Nixon, when a member of the House Un-American Activities Committee, was also ruthless with witnesses refusing to answer. In the Kravitz-Chotiner case, however, McCarthy actually went on the Senate floor to alibi publicly for Chotiner.

Chotiner's Influence This column and various Senate committees have exposed others who collected legal or lobbying fees because of influence, from John Maragou up. So here are some of the interesting things in the life of Murray Chotiner which the Senators may want to investigate.

First, let's see whether he really has influence. Here is the record: On Jan. 4, 1953, Chotiner gave a check for $1,500 to the Statler Hotel in Washington as down payment for 25 rooms for Nixon's inaugural guests.

On Oct. 6, 1953, Chotiner began sending out letters to obtain a re-alignment of the Republican Party in California, to take it away from Senator Knowland and Governor Warren, then about to become Chief Justice, and put it under Nixon and Governor Knight.

Sept. 5, 1955, Chotiner was made associate director of the "Len Hall Campaign School" by the Republican National Committee. He lectured on campaign tactics to 48 GOP state chairmen before they went to Denver to ask Ike to run again.

Chotiner began spending more time in Washington. He became one of the most trusted advisers of the GOP National Committee. Bob Humphreys, director of campaign activities for the committee, described Chotiner's work as a

"smash hit." He was considered an expert on ways to have "good associated with Republicans" and "bad associated with Democrats."

Chotiner's closeness to Nixon was clearly demonstrated at that time by the fact that he wrote several hundred letters to newspapers and radio station, demanding corrections regarding news pertaining to Nixon. In these letters he stated that he was writing "on behalf of Vice President Nixon."

Chotiner's Law Practice Now let's see what the Chotiner record was in taking various law cases where influence helped.

First and for a long time, Chotiner and his brother have been the chief attorneys hired by gamblers and bookmakers in Los Angeles. Judging from the number of such cases on the docket of the Superior Court of Los Angeles County, this was Chotiner's chief practice before he came to Washington. The court record between 1949 and June 1, 1952, includes 221 cases and covers 42 pages.

Chotiner and his brother, judging by the court record, were extremely successful in getting the Los Angeles underworld off with light fines or suspended sentences.

Second, Chotiner broke into the headlines in a Federal Trade Commission case when Abner L. Lipscomb of that commission ruled that the National Research Co., a debt-tracing firm, had no right to deceive debtors in order to help clients collect overdue bills.

The National Research Co. was using what looked like the Seal of the United States, plus such words as "The United States" and "Claims Office" in such a way as to make people who owed money believe they were getting letters from the U.S. Government.

It developed that Chotiner was not only attorney for the company but was helping direct the affairs of the company and answering mail.

When this hit the headlines, however, Chotiner quickly moved to extricate Nixon from any political association with him.

Arabian Ferment

By Joseph Alsop

DHAHRAN, SAUDI ARABIA

This is the land of incredible juxtapositions. Walk a mile from where these words are written, past the low, spidery structures of pipes that hereabouts signify producing oil wells, and you find the kind of empty desert that Doughty and T. E. Lawrence described.

But here in the "senior staff camp" (which means the camp of skill and privilege) of the Arabian American Oil Company, you are in a brisk little suburb of Los Angeles which has been transported, as though by magic carpet, into the midst of the wilderness.

Or in Jeddah, if you are about betimes, you can occasionally see a crowd of Negro women squatting at the entrance of the dress shop that has been opened by the enterprising wives of two of the Saudi Airlines American pilots. These women are harem servants who have got the word that the shop has a new consignment of the best clothes New York can produce. They will take home whole armfuls to their ladies. But for their jewels and their really good dresses, the women shut away in the harems look to still more costly Paris.

Technicians And Slaves Or here in Dhahran, in Aramco's vast refinery, you can see Saudi Arabian workmen performing the most complex technical tasks, and getting equal pay with foreign contract labor too. But in this country, you can still buy slaves. The price is rumored to be about $150 for an able bodied man, $300 for a boy and $600 for a girl; and a first class hunting falcon costs nearly as much as a male slave.

These juxtapositions are important, because they suggest the violence of the transition through which this country is now passing, from the immemorial past into the busy present. And this violent transition is vitally significant because it is creating a highly unstable situation, which is hardly masked any longer by the appearance of the absolute power of the Saudi dynasty. In brief, under the impact of the sudden inflow of oil money, Arabia's old tribal system has all but broken down entirely. Within two decades a nation that was three quarters nomadic has become three quarters settled, and most of the settlement has taken place in a few towns where the court and oil company spend their money.

Furthermore, whole new social groups are now emerging and beginning to ask questions. There is a sort of new bourgeoisie, led by contractors for Aramco and the court, many of whom would like to see their country more rapidly modernized.

About Diet And Bed Rest In Infectious Hepatitis

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Infectious hepatitis is more common in war times but with each conflict, we learn more about the condition. Fifteen years ago the cause was not known; we called it catarrhal or epidemic jaundice. The name was changed to infectious or viral hepatitis during World War II when authorities found out about the causative virus and how it spread through camps and cities.

Since then the standard treatment has been rest, a nutritious diet, vitamins, and abstinence from alcohol. This regimen proved satisfactory and was not challenged until our postwar occupation of Germany, when an attempt was made to find out how rest and exercise affected the course of the disorder.

Ninety-eight patients in varying stages of the disease were selected and divided into three groups. The first was given graduated exercises for two weeks, starting with simple calisthenics and working up to 15 minutes of running. Regis Fair pitched LaSalle into first place tie with Fort Hill and also took over the batting leadership of the Bi-State Conference yesterday as the Explorers defeated Hyndman High School's Hornets in Pennsylvania by the score of 8-1 to registered their fifth triumph in six starts in the high school baseball circuit.

Fair limited the Keystone Staters to two hits, a single by Twigg and a triple by Ranker, struck out eleven and paced LaSalle's 10-hit attack with three safeties in four trips to soar his batting average for the season to an even .500—10 hits in 20 official trips. Only three of Fair's offerings were hit out of the field, including a sacrifice fly. Ranker tripped in the 7th frame but was cut down at the plate on a play engineered by Bill Roberts, Richard Garlitz, Kenny Klosterman and John Sheehy. Richard Murray threw out another Hyndman player at home in the 4th on an attempted double steal.

LaSalle knotted the score at 1-1 in the second and put the game on ice with a 4-run outburst in the fourth. The Explorers lifted the bases when Sheehy got a life on an error and Parsons and Murray walked. Then Mike Dougherty pounded in two runs with a timely double. Murray scored on a wild pitch and the fourth tally came on Robert's fielder's choice. Sheehy's two-base swat and singles by Jim Parsons, Reggie Lennox and Jim Struntz produced three additional runs in the 5th.

Valley Edges Beall
Valley High School stayed right on the heels of the deadlocked leaders by nailing out Beall High School 6-5 at Frostburg but the Black Knights lost the services of Grover Fazenbaker, starting pitcher, who suffered a bruised arm in a collision with Jackie Parker, Beall runner, on a play at first base in the 6th inning. The injury put Fazenbaker out of action and Ronnie "Butch" Young finished on the rubber for Valley High.

The win was Valley's 5th against two losses and put Coach John Meyers' aggregation a half game out of first place.

Three of Valley's six hits went for extra bases while Llewellyn's triple was among the Mountaineers' eight safeties.

Mt. Savage High School provided the "big surprise" by upsetting Bruce High's Bulldogs in a game played at Mt. Savage. The score was 12-3.

The victory put Coach Joe Carter's Indians in the 500 class with a 3-3 record. Bruce suffered its third loss against four victories.

Mt. Savage clouted Norman Raines and Donnie Wilkinson for 13 hits, including seven extra base hits. Bill Clauson paced the assault with two triples and a single while George Bishields, Tom Birmingham, Charley Shaffer and Burkett each hit safely twice.

Wayne Flegle, who supplanted Darrell Glass in the fourth inning, received credit for the win, his second against as many losses. Each pitcher yielded one hit — a single by Guthrie and a three-base belt by Fazenbaker.

Today Allegany High's Campers are scheduled to play the Aggies at Flintstone.

Eleven To Vie In Derby Trial Set For Today

Fabius, Head Man In One Mile Race

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 30 (AP)—Eleven 3-year-olds were entered for the 19th running of the Derby Trial stakes tomorrow at Churchill Downs, and the colt many people will be watching is Fabius from the famed Calumet Farm.

The reason is that Plain Be Jones, the veteran trainer, may or may not be hiding another Kentucky Derby winner under his big white hat.

Fabius and C. V. Whitney's grey charger, Head Man, are the two big name horses in the one mile, $10,000-added Derby Trial—a race that has been an important barometer for the Derby itself in recent years.

Six of the last eight runnings of the Kentucky Derby have been won by horses who finished first or second in the trial. Thus tomorrow's race starting at 5:30 p. m. EST will be watched closely by the customers shopping around for something to back at the mutual windows in Saturday's mile and one quarter Derby.

Needles, the Florida-bred colt owned by the D. & H. Stable and current Derby favorite, and Career Boy—the other big Whitney colt—will miss the trial. Needles wasn't nominated, while Career Boy ran second last week in the Blue Grass Stakes. Career Boy, apparently recovered from a bruised foot, will have an important workout early tomorrow.

The Derby Trial certainly will eliminate a batch of horses from the big $125,000-added classic on Saturday.

Fabius, to be ridden by Willie Hartack, will carry 112 pounds, and is expected to be a 2-1 favorite. In 1952, Calumet's Hill Galt broke the track record in the trial, then returned to collect the roses.

30 Hold $2 Tickets On Win Combination

LAUREL, Md., April 30 (AP)—The second largest daily double payoff of Maryland's spring racing season overshadowed the facile score of Open Sesame in the Kenwood Country Club Purse here this afternoon.

The daily double returned $1,753.20 to 30 holders of $2 tickets and was second only to the $1,803 double at Bowie on March 17 winning horses in the Nos. 7 and 10 combination were Caddy's Pat and Sara Kate.

Open Sesame, owned by Walter M. Jeffords, was, by way of contrast, installed $3.40 for $2 choice by the crowd of 9,391 fans in the feature race.

DST Confusion Again Reigns In West Virginia

Many Residents Agree To Disagree

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., April 30 (AP)—Confusion again reigns supreme in this Eastern Panhandle of West Virginia in the wake of the shift to daylight saving time. But the confusion is not nearly as bad as it has been in previous years.

This year the area's residents agreed to disagree again on the perennial time question with the rural folk sticking to standard and the urbanites moving their clocks ahead one hour.

The three counties of Berkeley, Jefferson and Morgan constitute a kind of frontier or borderland. Generally speaking, all places north of the area went on fast time Sunday morning; those south stood by standard. The three-county dividing strip is caught in the splash and some have adopted "split-time" where schools open and close 30 minutes later than normal, thus cutting the urban-rural time difference in half.

Martinsburg, Charles Town, Ransom, Harper's Ferry, Bolivar, Shepherdstown, Berkeley Springs, Keyser and Piedmont are all keeping fast time—thereby demonstrating more unanimity than has prevailed around here before. Surrounding rural areas, for the most part, left their clocks alone.

The Berkeley County Board of Education, serving both rural and urban children, decided on the split-time compromise.

The school systems in Morgan and Jefferson counties are remaining on standard time until the end of the term.

And the old town clock atop the courthouse in Berkeley Springs is agreed on all four faces. In past years, it has reflected the time split by showing fast time on two of its faces and standard on the other two. But since the County Court decided to go on daylight time this year and since the clock is controlled by county officials, all four faces read the same this year—all tell fast time.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

An Attractive Face Can Be Acquired (2)

Know your face. If you are to make the most of your good features and conceal the poor ones, every girl should study her face to learn how to make herself more attractive.

The ideal face is the oval, which I discussed in yesterday's column, along with the round and square-shaped. But there is no need to be discouraged, some very interesting and attractive women have other shapes. Many illusions can be successful by proper make-up, hair styling, and flattering clothes. Two more categories are given below:

OBLONG—Your face conforms to the shape of a rectangular frame and is long and narrow. It resembles the perfect oval but has an angular jaw and straight or possibly pointed chin. Another difference is that you have long, thin side-planes to your cheeks. Concentrate on curves and giving a foreshortened effect to your features. Never have a center part nor arch the brows high. Avoid long, hanging earrings that seem to "lengthen" your face. A lighter rouge blended in a circle in the center of the cheeks and foundation to highlight the entire face is flattering.

TRIANGLE—You have a wide forehead and narrow pointed chin. Add fullness to your small chin with hair style. Avoid too-big hats. Large earrings and frilly big collars are becoming. This face with a narrow jawline can be widened by light rouge applied at the highest point of the cheek-line. If you have a long chin use a deeper tone foundation under your chin, blending it over the tip.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

AXYDLBAAXR is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Practice Alert Is Set Today At Post Office

All Occupants To Participate

A Civil Defense test alert will be held in the Post Office building today at 2 p. m., for all occupants of the building, according to Thomas F. Conlon, postmaster.

The alert is part of a nationwide plan to have all federal employees and occupants of federal buildings prepared to act properly and promptly in the event of an air raid or other emergency which might cause an alert.

All people working in the building, including postal employees, recruiter personnel, FBI, postal inspectors, engineers, social security workers, internal revenue personnel and everyone regularly assigned to the building, have been instructed to proceed to designated shelters at any time an alert is called.

Signs have been strategically placed throughout the building marking the route to designated shelters in the basement. Occupants of the building, depending upon where their offices are situated, will proceed down the stairway nearest them, to the basement.

Customers in the building at the time will also be directed to air raid shelters.

All postal employees will be assigned to one shelter, where, by instructions from the Postal Department, they are to proceed with first aid and rescue demonstrations. Conlon said a corps of first aid personnel has already been trained among the postal workers.

In the other shelter, where other occupants of the federal building will assemble, selected personnel will handle first aid and other problems of the alert.

This practice alert will be called by the flashing of electric lights in the building at 2 p. m. Conlon said an alarm system has been ordered for the building and will be installed. Since it is not available, the lights will be flashed on and off several times for the alert, as well for the all-clear.

This practice alert is being held to plan for proper action on the nation-wide alert which is to occur sometime from July 20 to July 28. Conlon said, since today's alert is the first practice session in the building, comments and suggestions from those involved will be appreciated, afterwards.

Conlon said the federal government has called upon the post office people to hold these practice alerts, as a means of encouraging all county, city, state and other governmental agencies, as well as firms, business houses, schools, industries and other organizations to make similar plans and preparations to meet emergencies.

Firemen Finish Basic Course

Eleven men graduated from a basic fire-fighting course at Baltimore Pike fire hall Saturday night, at a dinner given in their honor.

Cromwell Zembower, who instructed the group in its 60-hour basic training course, said four of the men are members of the Bedford Road Fire Company and seven are members of the Baltimore Pike Fire Department.

Robert C. Byrns, state director of fire extension service for the University of Maryland, came here from College Park. He spoke at dinner and presented the companies with station certificates bearing the names of the trained graduates. Fire Chief Harry M. DeHaven accepted the scroll for the Baltimore Pike unit and Fire Chief Fred Purnell accepted for Bedford Road.

Delbert Valentine, president, and George Comp, vice president of the Allegany-Garrett Firemen's Association, also spoke. Valentine belongs to District 16 Company and Comp to Deer Park.

Zembower presented each graduate with his "diploma," a pocket-sized card bearing certification of completion of the basic training course.

Optimists To Sell Brooms At Homes

Members of the Cumberland Optimist Club, who have been selling brooms on Baltimore Street during the Old Fashioned Bargain Days, will move to residential sections of the city tonight and tomorrow night to continue this activity, according to David L. Miller, president.

All members have been requested to meet at the Speelman Ice Cream plant at 6 o'clock this evening where the chairman of the broom sale committee, Carl Winfield, will organize teams. The Optimists then will move to the North End to sell brooms.

Then tomorrow the club will hold its dinner meeting at 5:30 p. m., an hour earlier than usual, so that the Optimists can converge on the West Side to sell more brooms made by the Maryland Workshop For The Blind. The selling will stop in time for a meeting of the Board of Governors at 9 o'clock at the home of George Brant, 518 Regina Avenue. Lt. Gov. J. Shapp will be there.

Annual Show Of Flowers Begins Here

Mrs. Ebert Wins Arrangement Prize

Mrs. Robert Ebert's table setting flower arrangement, "Breakfast for Two," won the best in show blue ribbon and a special plaque awarded by the Garden Club of Cumberland at the first annual flower show sponsored by the Garden Club and the Woman's Civic Club of Cumberland which opened yesterday at the Eagles Home on North Mechanic Street.

Mrs. Ebert's simple breakfast table arrangement was one of six entries in the table setting class of the show. Mrs. Ebert, who lives on Mt. Royal Avenue, also had several other entries which topped ribbons.

Altogether judges awarded 167 blue, red, yellow and white ribbons for first, second, third and honorable mentions in the four divisions of the show. In addition to the garden club's special plaque for the best flower arrangement, another special plaque was given the Old Export Garden for the greatest number of blue ribbon winners among the more than 360 entries in the show. This plaque was donated by the co-sponsor Woman's Civic Club.

Special Plaques

Both special plaques will be retained by the two winners until the next community flower show.

The show, which opened yesterday at 4 p. m. and will continue today from 12 noon until 9 p. m., received much favorable comment from spectators and was well attended on the first day.

The flower arrangements division produced nine blue ribbon winners in the adult classes and three blue ribbon winners in the junior classes for high school students, juniors 12 to 15 years, and juniors under 12 years of age.

In addition to Mrs. Ebert, other arrangement winners were Mrs. Charles Kopp, Braddock Road, first; Mrs. Edgar Vandegrift, Bedford Road, second; Mrs. Owen Hitchens, The Dingle, third, in Class 1-A for small size table for anyone who had never won a prize or ribbon before.

First Winner

In Class 1-B for those who had never entered an arrangement before the winner was Mrs. Earl Nonnenmann, Blake Terrace. Second was Mrs. Mary Largent, Paw Paw, W. Va., and third was Mrs. William J. Gunter, Woodlawn. Honorable mentions went to Mrs. Jack Triebler, Central Avenue, and Mrs. Harry Griggs, Brookfield Avenue, in this class also.

In Class 2 the winners for arrangements featuring various shades of one color were Mrs. Ralph Isminger, Roberts Place, first; Mrs. H. C. Reed, Fayette Street, second, and Mrs. Rudolph Steinberger, Cresaptown, third. Honorable mentions went to Mrs. Howard Tolson, Braddock Road, and Mrs. L. H. Shafferman, Bedford Street.

Mahoney Seeks Big City Votes

BALTIMORE, April 30 (AP)—George P. Mahoney tonight took his campaign for the Democratic senatorial nomination into the home district of one of his principal foes, Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro.

The mayor and his first district backers are supporting former Sen. Millard E. Tydings for the nomination. However, Mahoney headquarters aides today expressed confidence that D'Alesandro's opposition will mean little when the votes are counted May 7.

Paul J. Reed Jr., Mahoney's city campaign manager, predicted the Baltimore County paving contractor will carry all six Baltimore Districts including the 4th, a district Mahoney has failed to carry in three previous bids for state-wide office.

Mahoney, turning his full attention to Baltimore City in the final week of the campaign, also is expected to turn his attack to Communism. In the counties, he talked mostly about farmers and small business men.

Master John Dowell reaches into the can to draw out one of the three lucky numbers for the special packaged meat prizes given away last night by the Cumberland Retail Merchants Association at the climax of "Old Fashioned Bargain Days" celebration. Looking on as young John reaches for the first prize winner are his sister Carlene, who assisted in the drawings, and members of the association who staged the affair, (left to right) Harry B. Williams, Frank G. Martin and Simon Rosenbaum. The youngsters are the children of Mrs. Carson Dowell, 835 Braddock Road.

Crews Begin Filling New Water Line

Project Completed Ahead Of Schedule

Crews of the Cumberland Contracting Company are filling and testing the North Branch Water Line, William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and electric light, announced yesterday.

He said the final section of pipe was laid late Friday afternoon at the B & O crossing on Mexico Farms Road.

Yesterday, he said, workers began filling the line and by noon had it full to the Mexico Farms crossing. It will require 700,000 gallons of water to fill the line.

The 18-inch steel line, he added, will be tested for leaks under 200 pounds pressure.

If no leaks develop, chlorine will be added to sterilize the line.

The only other work remaining, he said, is the final "dressing up" tasks.

Commissioner Edwards said the local firm has done a "good job" on the line, and that it deserves praise for keeping the work ahead of schedule in spite of bad construction weather over the winter.

He said the city had promised to have water at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant by July 1, and that it will be available two months ahead of schedule.

The line stretches about 26,500 feet from the Fort Hill Reservoir to the plant site at North Branch and is estimated to cost about $400,000.

Cumberland Contracting Company began construction early in November on a $165,715 contract. Steel pipe was purchased by the city for $166,555.33 from the Armo Drainage and Metal Products Company.

Red Cross Seeks To Fill Vacancy

The board of directors of the Allegany County Chapter American Red Cross is accepting applications for an executive secretary, to fill the vacancy created by the death of Mrs. Martha Withers.

Mrs. Harry Beneman, chapter chairman, said applications are being accepted from both men and women. Prior experience is not essential, since the National Chapter Red Cross has a training program for executive secretaries and directors, and will also furnish information on policy, programming and other activities of the organization.

Persons interested in a full time career with the Red Cross, who have a proper background, organizational ability, and proper personality for such a position will be considered by the board. Mrs. Beneman said.

Scouters Attend Training Institute

Eleven Scouters from Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, attended a recent Region 3 training institute held at Slippery Rock, Pa.

Attending from this area were Lester McDowell, Keyser; Alfred Taylor, Oakland; H. S. Jeffries, Frostburg; John Forman, Oakland; M. G. Thompson, W. T. Allee, J. C. Warden and Albert Tosh, all of Cumberland, and Rev. J. H. Atwell, Oakland.

Willis V. Smith, scout executive, and W. R. Sifton, Keyser, field scout executive, represented the Potomac Council office.

Pa. Man Gets Jury Award Of $7,000

Panel Deliberates Over Two Hours

An Allegany County Circuit Court jury yesterday awarded an Aliquippa, Pa., man $7,000 damages following an all-day trial at which Chief Judge George Henderson presided.

The jury deliberated over two hours before coming to a decision in the $10,000 civil suit brought by Wilbur F. Fogle against Baden Peters of Alexandria, Va.

According to testimony Fogle suffered a detached retina of his right eye resulting in the loss of 80 per cent of his vision in that eye.

The plaintiff was driving north on Bedford Street on May 27, 1955, and crossed the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks after the watchman motioned him on.

As he attempted to turn left and travel west on Henderson Boulevard, a car driven by Peters approached his car traveling in the same direction on the boulevard.

When an occupant of the Fogle car saw the oncoming car, he called to the driver to "look out." As Fogle stopped the car he hit his head on the steering wheel, breaking his glasses and injuring his eye.

Peters claimed that he had stopped near the boulevard intersection and did not see the plaintiff's car and was proceeding west. There was no collision of the two cars. The jury got the case for consideration at 4:45 p. m. and reached a verdict at 6:55 p. m.

Counsel for the plaintiff was Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson Jr. while William H. Geppert was attorney for the defendant.

A group of students from Beall High School sat in on the trial yesterday.

Referendum Notices To Be Distributed

Formal notices of the July 31 referendum on Social Security will be handed to city workers with pay checks today.

Mayor Roy W. Eves said a supplementary notice, pointing out that "the adoption of Social Security will not affect the present coverage by the State Retirement System," will be included with the notice.

The referendum will be conducted by the Maryland Employees Retirement System to determine whether employees of the City of Cumberland will be covered by Social Security.

If a majority of eligibles vote for the plan, it will be retroactive to January 1 and cover all city workers, including temporary, seasonal and part time, except police and firemen.

Communion Breakfast Is Changed To May 20

The annual communion breakfast of the Men of LaSalle has been changed to Sunday, May 20, following 8:30 a. m. mass, officials of the group announced last night.

The affair originally was scheduled on Sunday, May 27, at St. Patrick's Catholic Church, but was changed to a week earlier due to other arrangements for the hall.

Flags Will Fly

William H. Buchholtz, commissioner of streets and public property, said flags will fly from all city buildings today in observance of Loyalty Day.

Senate Candidates—2

Tydings Displays Vigor In Drive For Former Seat

This is the second in a series of profiles on Maryland candidates for the Democratic nomination to the U. S. Senate.

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE, April 30 (AP)—Millard E. Tydings, the self-described reluctant entry, has campaigned for Democratic nomination to the U. S. Senate as though it was the only thing he wanted in life.

The vigor which he has put into his drive leading up to the primary a week from today has amazed even those who "drafted" him.

Tydings was almost a last ditch choice of some Democratic leaders who don't want George P. Mahoney to get the nomination. Several other prominent Maryland Democrats had been approached and rejected the candidacy.

No Novelty

As late as the middle of February, Tydings had refused to take on the job. "It is no novelty to me," he told those urging him to be a candidate for the Senate seat he held for 24 years.

After his surprise defeat by John Marshall Butler, a politically unknown Republican, Tydings rebuilt a lucrative law practice.

"I had no desire to run again and it would be a financial sacrifice for me," he said in response to the searchers for a Mahoney foe.

Tydings did consent for Kent County politicians to send up a trial balloon by announcing their endorsement of him. Then, he said he was besieged with encouragement from throughout the state which persuaded him to file on Feb. 21.

By that time, Mahoney had so many endorsements of political leaders throughout the state that he seemed to have the nomination secured in advance.

There were three other candidates, Andrew J. Easter, Thomas L. Christian and George Washington Williams, but none of them was counted as a serious threat.

Hits The Trail

Although a distinguished senator of four terms and 65 years of age, Tydings hit the campaign trail with the fervor of a green law school graduate running for his first public office as though he needed the money.

His agility and endurance had younger followers panting in his wake. If possible, he walked faster and farther and shook more hands than Mahoney who had become famous as a "shoe leather" busybody in four previous unsuccessful campaigns for governor and senator.

"I've met more people than any candidate in the history of Maryland," he said.

Tydings Speaks At $100 Dinner

BALTIMORE, April 30 (AP)—Millard E. Tydings appeared before some 400 backers tonight at a $100-a-plate dinner to help finance his Democratic senatorial primary campaign.

The 65-year-old former senator, trying to regain the seat he lost to Republican John Marshall Butler in the 1950 general election, spent the earlier part of the day conferring with campaign headquarters aides.

Tonight's dinner was sponsored by the D'Alesandro City Committee, headed by former U. S. Marshal Richard C. O'Connell. O'Connell has been closely allied with Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore, one of Tydings' foremost supporters.

Tydings found new support today when the Independent Democratic Organization of Baltimore's 6th District announced it was supporting him.

Peter A. Vinci, who heads the organization which previously had been considered friendly to Tydings' chief rival, George P. Mahoney, said, "We thought Mr. Tydings was the better man and had more experience and a better chance."

City Firemen Answer Five Alarms In Day

Buchanan Blaze Highlights Action

Considerable damage was caused yesterday as a result of five separate fires which occurred in various sections of the city.

Heaviest damage was caused at the Buchanan Lumber Company, rear of 549 North Centre Street and also at a private home on Kingsley Street.

Central and West Side firemen went to the lumber company in the early afternoon hours when a blaze started in the finishing room of the firm.

Firemen blamed a short circuit in an electric tar pot as the cause of the blaze. Shellac, paint thinner and rags caught fire. The ceiling and insulation on electric wiring was also damaged. Central answered the call when Box 24 was pulled at 1:53 p. m.

West Side went to the scene at 1:59 p. m. A mattress and bedclothes in a bedroom on the second floor of 500 Kingsley Street, owned and occupied by James Luteman, were destroyed in a fire which broke out about 2:06 p. m.

A burning cigarette was the probable cause of the blaze, firemen said. Smoke and water damaged the second floor of the home which had to be ventilated.

The booster line of East Side station was used to quench the flames. Two local companies were called into action when a brush and grass fire developed at 303 Clement Street.

South End was called at 11:52 a. m. and Central firemen went to the scene at 12:10 p. m.

When Box 134 was pulled at 3:43 p. m. at the corner of Fayette Street and Karns Avenue, firemen from West Side went to 698 Fayette Street where a short circuit had occurred in a light at that address.

South End was called out again yesterday evening and checked a grass fire in the vicinity of Blackiston Avenue and First Street.

TV To Be Awarded At Annual Fun Fair

The South Cumberland Businessmen's Association will award a 21-inch television set on May 19, the last night of the Fun Fair, according to H. Clifford Spiker, chairman.

The fair will open May 14, at Penn Avenue Field. Arrangements have been made for a number of rides for children, Spiker said.

Chairmen for the award section will be Francis A. Kenney, assisted by Robert E. Pence, Sheriff Edward R. Muir and Commissioners John J. Long, William J. Edwards and William H. Buchholtz.

Corriganville Boys Club Meets Wednesday

The Corriganville Boys Club will meet at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Corriganville Fire Hall to formulate plans for the festival and dedication planned Friday.

John Wolf, president, and George L. Bowers, chief adviser, request all members and advisers to attend.

Prizes Awarded As Bargain Days Come To Close

Ridgeley Man Wins Steer

Packages of dressed beef, pork and veal were given away to three lucky winners of the drawing held last night by the Cumberland Retail Merchants Association which climaxed the three-day "Old Fashioned Bargain Days" celebration here.

The drawing was held at the corner of Baltimore and Centre Streets and the three lucky numbers were drawn from a bowl by John and Carlene Dowell, children of Mrs. Carson Dowell, 835 Braddock Road. The children were picked from the crowd of approximately 100 persons who witnessed the event.

First prize of a steer went to A. Rapello, 11 Barnard Street, Ridgeley; second prize of a hog went to Mrs. Walter McFarland, Route 1, Frostburg; and the third award of a lamb, was won by Mrs. Richard Brant, 134 Oak Street.

The committee from the retail merchants association which arranged the drawing were Harry B. Williams, Frank A. Martin and Simon Rosenbaum.

Stores were thronged after the city's big sales event began Friday until 9 o'clock last night. Shoppers packed the streets corners and traffic was unusually heavy. Several stores conducted special promotion programs and numerous bargains were available to the shoppers throughout the occasion.

A prize of a trip to the Caribbean aboard a cruise ship was won by Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Lancaster, 5 Allegany Street, Lonaconing, Sunday afternoon at a band concert held in Constitution Park amphitheatre. Approximately 600 persons attended the afternoon concert as the Cumberland Municipal Band provided the music.

The band was directed by Frank Munson and Robert Nutter and featured old tunes. Members of Explorer Scout troops sold peanuts to the audience.

The old fashioned days program was adjudged highly successful by most merchants here and the occasion was aided by the warmest weather of the year throughout the entire affair.
